CAUSE OF ANARCHY.

With a great flourish of trumpets Attorney General Palmer apprehends numerous anarchistic agitators and holds them for deportation only to have them turned loose by another member of Wilson's cabinet. On the front pages of newspapers he proclaims his intention to proceed against profiteers but no one is placed behind prison bars. He denounced the coal strikers as criminals and then compromised with them. Equally effective will be his bombastic announcement of intentions in dealing with the leaders of the railroad strike.

But all this display of activity against agitators will not serve to detract public attention from the cause of the unrest which exists. In every section and among all classes there is widespread knowledge of the official extravagance if not actual graft in the national administration. A hundred thousand extra employees have been working for the government during war time emergency and since, and these people upon their return home, or in their correspondence with their home people have related their own personal observation of the profligacy, lack of organization and disregard of public welfare which characterizes almost every branch of public service at the national capital. The ordinary citizen is unable to distinguish between government and the executive administration. Feeling that this waste and extravagance could not exist without a large measure of graft and knowing that there have been no prosecutions or convictions of those responsible, people who are struggling under the overwhelming cost of living feel a resentment without being able to find an opportunity to vent their anger against the individuals primarily at fault. In such a situation large numbers of people are in a frame of mind to defy authority wherever it exists and to distrust either the efficiency or the honesty of the men in authority. Of the extravagance and waste if not actual graft there can be no doubt. Instead of proceeding against these men who are responsible for the present exorbitant taxation and largely for the high cost of living, Mr. Palmer limits his energies to arresting alien anarchists whom we have always had with us but who were never a dangerous element until conditions brought about by the Wilson administration furnished a fertile field for the sowing of seeds of unrest. Mr. Palmer is a physician treating symptoms and ignoring the disease.

DEMOCRATIC HYSTERIA.

After doing nothing for six weeks after the passage of the railroad bill, the President suddenly appointed the Labor Board, sent the nominations to the senate and telegraphed the appointees to come to Washington at once ready to begin their deliberations the moment the senate approved his selections. The senate was utterly without information concerning the men and sought some facts regarding them before registering disapproval. The whole situation reminds one of the history of the league covenant. After spending seven months in Paris preparing his American surrender policy he suddenly dumped the result on the senate with a demand for ratification without the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of an "a." But the senate did not stampede and insisted on examining the treaty in relation to American welfare. Before approving the Labor Board appointees the senate determined to find out what manner of men had been put in charge of controversies affecting the very life of the nation. The rush act is always resorted to by schemers and it is well at such times when it is exercised that people take some extra precaution to see that another trick is not put over them.

HITCHCOCK IN NEBRASKA.

Senator Hitchcock still believes that Wilsonism is synonymous with Democracy. He explained that he permitted the use of his name in the Nebraska primaries as a presidential candidate to offset the Bryan movement. If the state was to present a candidate to the Democratic convention Mr. Hitchcock thought "he ought to see a man who is at least in harmony with the present attitude of the Democratic party and not one who is attempting to displace President Wilson as leader of that party." The senator said that he hoped that Bryan would announce his candidacy when he put his own hat in the ring, but the challenge was refused. Mr. Bryan is too skilled a politician to be smoked out by any such crude subterfuge as that contrived by Senator Hitchcock. He prefers to go to San Francisco with his intentions more or less of a mystery, ready to throw the weight of his influence where it can best disable the Wilson forces.

Without much noise, a budget measure is being quietly crowded to passage at this session of Congress. The budget bill will be a law in all likelihood before many weeks and a long step will have been taken in the direction of badly needed financial reform in government affairs.

Stories of "Dick" Craker, former Tammany boss, has lost his one-time remarkable mental astuteness don't seem to be borne out by the recent interview with him on politics. Asked who is the strongest democratic candidate, he replied: "They have no strong man have they? I haven't heard of him."

It now develops that the reports of a reduction of the public debt are misleading and expenses continue to exceed receipts. In other words, the waste and extravagance of this administration continue to be felt by the public. It will take years of wise handling of government affairs to overcome all the effects of the orgy of needless money spending.

WHY IS CALIFORNIA?

Tonopah, April 20, 1920.

To the Daily Bonanza:
In your credited article of this evening of "Why Is California?" your article does not state that we have all the fruits and vegetables that is not fit to ship to other states of the union. Also that when we want a white man's pay we are free to go to some other state to get it.

Just to show our loyalty to good old California don't we send there for our daily papers in preference to the local ones.

When we get our checks, we don't forget "Why Is California," but send there for all we need in wearing apparel for we do like to get soaked.

"Why Is California," ask any of us who have left there.

Respectfully,
NATIVE SON.

POLITICIANS ORDERED
PALMER TO FIX PRICE

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Cause and effect in the setting of a price for Louisiana sugar by Attorney General Palmer were set forth before the house inquiry committee by Representative Tinkham. He read into the record from statements of Representative Martin made to the house, extracts to show that a number of Louisiana politicians saw Attorney General Palmer and told him to straighten out the sugar situation in that state, also that the Attorney General did straighten it out by fixing the price there at 17 to 18 cents at a time when sugar could be bought in Cuba for 5 to 12 cents.
